Dear Sisters and Brothers,

The ways we are called and how we respond are unique to each of us. If we look at our last two popes and their first feelings about being called to the priesthood, we find quite different stories. Benedict XVI recalled playing at making altars and celebrating Mass with his brother from an early age. Pope Francis, though coming from an equally devout background, took a different route. It was not till he was in his late teens that a conversation with a trusted priest friend led to him considering the idea of a priestly vocation. In fact at the time he was considering proposing to his girlfriend! Even then, the pathway was not straightforward. His father was pleased at the thought of the priesthood, but his mother, perhaps with the premonition mothers often have about the demands that would be made, was not keen at all. He was then taken gravely ill with an infection to the lung and underwent a serious operation. His first attempt at a vocation was with the local diocese, and it was only gradually that he discovered his true home with the Jesuits: quite a complicated path, but reassuring to us as we try to sort out what God is asking of us in our lives.

Of course, God's call to us is not restricted to the priestly or religious life. By baptism we were all called to follow Christ as priests, prophets and kings. That calling can be worked out in the choices we make of our careers, our partnerships and our friendships. Each of our paths is unique; the only thing we can be certain of is that God will be asking something of us.

St. John's version of the calling of the disciples, in today's Gospel Lesson, is concerned with how we grow in faith and so become disciples. As in today's Old Testament Lesson, about the calling of Samuel, it is a process. First of all John the Baptist passes on two of his disciples to Jesus, repeating his declaration from the time of Jesus' baptism that this is the "lamb of God", the one who takes away the sins of the world. The disciples move towards Jesus but address him as "Rabbi", a respected teacher. Jesus has turned towards them, and they ask him where he lives as a way of discovering where he gathers his teaching groups together. They want to learn. He invites them to come and see. They then spend the day with him, as a result of which Andrew is able to tell his brother Simon that they have found the Messiah. Jesus is not just a teacher. He confirms this by his recognition of who Simon is, where he has come from and who he will be.

In St. John's Gospel, faith is at times expressed as a coming to Jesus, and seeing in depth is compared with being blind or missing the point. This is how we too grow in faith. If we come to Jesus and spend time with him, we too may go beyond thinking of him as just a teacher and come to see him as the Messiah and more. But it is always Jesus who leads us; it is he who names us and reveals our true selves to us as he does with Peter.

To discover our true calling and how to be a disciple we are called to follow the same pattern described in St. John's account. We may not come from an appreciation of the Old Testament and the knowledge his disciples brought. That does not matter. We bring ourselves, with whatever our particular strengths and weaknesses may be. We can know that we are invited to come to Jesus himself and spend time with him. This may be time spent in prayer, in learning about him, in just giving time to being with him. It is this gift of ourselves that will allow us to grow in our understanding of him and also of what he has in store for us.

We may not be the rock Jesus calls Simon Peter to be, but we will have a significant role to play. Our close acquaintance with Jesus, our living with him, our allowing him to touch our lives is what will lead us into both understanding and action. If we find it difficult to believe God has this special interest in us, we can also help each other discover our callings.

May God always be pleased with us!
Monsignor Michael

Our Scripture Lessons remind us:

...that we are called in many different ways, as the lives of the recent popes illustrate;

...that Jesus calls his disciples in such a way as to deepen their faith and understanding;

...and that we too can discern our calling by following the same pattern of coming to Jesus and spending time with him.

May God always be pleased with us. Amen!

JANUARY 18, 2015 - SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

ST. ANN SCHOOL NEWS

Dear Friends of St. Ann School,

It is that time of year again! We are in the process of registering students for the 2015-2016 school year. We give preference to our current students, but have room for more.

Why bother with St. Ann School? Every parishioner should be able to answer that question and encourage families to attend.

First, we begin with what St. Ann School is not. We are not an alternative to public education. We have a very different philosophy, mission, and purpose. We are not a government mandated and controlled school. We are part of the ministry of Jesus. Our curriculum is not censored to keep God out but rather to include Him in our day and course of study.

We are not huge! That means we foster an intimate family like environment where everyone knows your name. Each child is valued, not as a number, but as one with a destiny formed by God. We are not after universally accepted character traits. We form students in virtue and gospel values.

We are a Pre K four year old through Grade 8 Catholic parochial school in the Dioceses of Metuchen. We are accredited and fully staffed by competent Catholic professionals. We educate the whole child in an integrated system. Our education encompasses mind, body, and soul. It includes social, career, and personal development.

Our children are happy! They radiate the joy of Christ. They are successful students with high academic achievement as witnessed by our national standardized test scores that are consistently above grade placement levels. Success is marked by 100% acceptance into the high school of graduate choices and by the reputation of excellence students bring not only to high school, but to college and the work force. Our students are desired for their ability to write, produce, manage time, and for their work ethic. They become the skilled, ethical people the business community seeks to hire.

I know I am a bit prejudice when it comes to St. Ann School. But it is a school for families to consider. Arrange for a private tour at a day and time of your convenience or come to one of our Open Houses. Find out what our parents are bragging about for yourself. To set up an appointment call 908-725-7787.

Don't have school aged children? Let that not stop you from carrying out Pope Francis's call to evangelization. There are families in need of tuition assistance. Even more, your parish school needs financial support. Join our band wagon of success.

God bless you,

Sr. Mary Klersey, MPF
Principal
