Dear Sisters and Brothers,

Among the many saints of the Church, relatively few are named as “Doctors of the Church”. These “doctors” are held before us as teachers--men and women from whom we can reliably learn our faith. One of these is a young Carmelite nun, who died aged twenty-four, after living some nine years in the obscurity of a French Carmel: Thérèse Martin, or St, Thérèse of Lisieux.

At the heart of her teaching is “the little way”. Thérèse longed to be a saint, a martyr, a priest, a great missionary, but she knew she was a flawed, wounded young woman, confined to the Carmel, who is unable to do anything so extraordinary. Yet, in prayer, she came to realize that holiness and wisdom are not beyond her littleness; indeed, her very smallness and childishness are to become the way she comes to know God’s love. As she wrote, “... in spite of my littleness, I can aim at being a saint... there is no need for me to grow up. In fact, just the opposite: I must stay little and become less and less.” It is the great love of Jesus for Thérèse that transforms her “littleness”, and makes of all her small acts of service a way of holiness in ordinary life. Thérèse’s “little way” is the great way of ordinary, faithful love and care.

A good deal of Jesus’ teaching in the Gospels is about the kingdom of heaven---that great promise of a future in which the Father draws all creation into harmony. The images that Jesus uses to describe this kingdom draw on familiar, domestic life: the woman who loses a coin; the seed that grows to a great tree; the family and friends gathered to celebrate a marriage. Today we see such a picture of the kingdom---a picture of household management. To be people of the kingdom, Jesus’ parable suggests, is to be a people aware that we carry great gifts that belong not to us, but to our Lord. Jesus reminds us that the good use and effectiveness of these gifts is what should take up our time and energy, even if it seems risky or foolish. We have been given gifts from our Master; it is not enough just to put God’s trust in us to one side, keeping our faith safe and untroubled, and get on with other, more sensible-looking, things.

It is the constant concern for what is put into our hands that is so vividly set before us in the image of the “perfect wife” in the first reading. The woman’s hard work in the ordinary fabric of daily living, far from being “just” domestic, or “mere housework”, is recognised as the virtue that it is: a kind of practical wisdom that enables life to flourish, and generous charity to find a place in our homes. It is the ordinary doing of love and faithfulness. This is the stuff of our calling---the daily round, but lived with the joy and hope of the kingdom, and a loving wakefulness as we wait on the Lord, as Paul describes in our second reading.

Today we are all being called to a new kind of mission---a fresh witness to the world about the love of God in Jesus, and the joy that life in his Spirit brings. All too often we leave that work to others: what can I do, in the overwhelming littleness of my job, my family commitments, my daily concerns? I will pray, instead, for God to raise-up others to great tasks. Those prayers are important; but today’s Scripture Lessons remind us that, first and foremost, it is in the daily routines of life that the power of the kingdom can find a home in our world. By our loving attention to the simple things that are right in front of us, we become great evangelists, great witnesses to the kingdom.

So, next time we are cleaning, picking up the phone to a colleague or friend, cooking for our family, or waiting in line, let’s call to mind our great vocation to serve God’s kingdom in ordinary things. As we take on the routine tasks, let’s find a simple prayer that offers them to the Father, asking that he send the Holy Spirit into this work he entrusts to us. In such small steps, the world will be consecrated more and more to Christ.

May God always be pleased with us!

Monsignor Michael

Our Scripture Lessons remind us:

...that Jesus’ images of the kingdom are taken from the domestic, the ordinary – as is the “perfect wife” of Proverbs;

...that the teaching of scripture is that it is in our being faithful in ordinary, simple ways that God’s kingdom comes.
How can we live this out in daily life;

...and that St. Thérèse of Lisieux and her teaching on the “little way” can show us the way to the Kingdom.

May God always be pleased with us. Amen!

NOVEMBER 16, 2014 THIRTY-THIRD SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

ST. ANN SCHOOL NEWS

Dear Friends of St. Ann School,

Believe it or not, we finished the first of four marking periods. Teachers use PowerSchool to share student progress over time and to formulate report card grades.

No matter what your age, you remember giving your parent(s) that special card stock manila colored paper folded in half to make your report card. Today report cards are on white paper and are electronically generated. Msgr. Corona comes to school to personally give each child his report and when earned, honor certificate. The child then goes through the same thrill and anxiety of the past. They bring it home to mom or dad. Faces are somber but the same love, support and acceptance ensues. All parents ask is that their child tries and that the child is happy.

Isn't this true of our Heavenly Father? He wants us to try our best and he longs for us to be happy. His love, support, and acceptance is unconditional. God does not give gold stars or report cards. But every day is a new beginning.

For children, this is a chance to evaluate what worked and did not work in terms of school success. For students, it is time for a conversation about grades and where they come from. Teachers do not "give" grades. Students earn them. They earn them by what they do and do not do regarding school. Choices made with serious determination to succeed are in student control. This is the green wood day that the Scriptures mention. The habits formed today become the adult of the very near future. This is a time to recommit to doing what it takes to be the person God created them and us to be.

God and life do not give us success or fulfillment. We do that by the choices we make and the attitudes we take. God does have a plan for each of us. But it comes with free will. It is ours to decide to follow Him, to be as He desires, or to resist Him. In this way we are masters of our own fate and destiny.

On that same note, I am proud of our students. As I speak with teachers and review PowerSchool progress, students have been working hard. I can tell that there will be a large list of first and second honor students. God bless each of you for your support. As the song goes, you are the wind beneath each child's wings.

God bless you,

Sr. Mary Klersey, MPF
Principal
