TWENTY-THIRD SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME - SEPTEMBER 6, 2015

Dear Sisters and Brothers,

The divide between rich and poor people in the world seems to grow ever wider, but it is nothing new. In late nineteenth-century London, for example, the divide had expanded to extreme proportions. In his book The Victorians, A.N. Wilson writes, “The gulf between rich and poor and the numbers of the poor, the grinding degradation of their state and the ever-greater prosperity of the rich: these things escaped the notice of no one with eyes to see in the 1880s.” He says that no government or political party of the time took responsibility to provide housing for working people and that, because there was no central planning, speculative building of poor quality housing was given free rein.

Wilson quotes from George Sims, a social reformer, journalist and author of those times who said that poor people “must put up with dirt, and filth, and putrefaction; with dripping walls, and broken windows; with all the nameless abomination of an unsanitary hovel, because if they complain the landlord can turn them out at once, and find dozens of people eager to take their places who will be less fastidious”.

Today’s New Testament Lesson suggests that discrimination between rich and poor people had even infiltrated the early Church. St. James invokes the Old Testament belief that God’s special care is given to poor people, choosing them to be “rich in faith” and “heirs to the kingdom which he promised to those who love him”. Such teaching goes against the grain for in every age the overriding inclination is to go with wealth and the power it brings, and to look on poor people with indifference. Yet Jesus chose the life of a poor man; he had “nowhere to lay his head” and, in St. Paul’s words, “he became poor for your sake, to make you rich out of his poverty”.

In his public ministry Jesus’ love embraced everyone, and he bridged the great divide between rich and poor people, not in a material way but through increasing their love and faith. The miracle in today’s Gospel Lesson, in which Jesus cures a man who is deaf and speaks with difficulty, can be seen not only as physical healing but also as a spiritual gift that brings the man to a deeper faith. St. Mark gives the incident a symbolic meaning: the man is taken apart from the crowd and receives the ability to hear and to speak of what he has heard and understood, whereas the disciples, though they were privileged to be constantly in the presence of Jesus, so often failed to understand what they had heard. Significantly, Jesus’ injunction to tell no one about what has happened is given to the onlookers but not to the man; for he believes in Jesus and knows the meaning of what the Lord has done for him.

In Il Paradiso, the final canticle of the fourteenth-century Italian poet Dante’s epic The Divine Comedy, Dante and Beatrice travel to the fourth sphere of heaven and meet the souls of wise people whose wisdom has enlightened the world. Among them is St. Thomas Aquinas who, in the following words, puts before them the love of St. Francis of Assisi for “Lady Poverty” as an example of true wisdom: “For while young he rushed out to battle / With his father, for the sake of a lady to whom, / As to death, no one willingly opens the door; / Before the spiritual court, and in the presence / Of his father, he was united with her; / After which he loved her more every day... / Francis and Poverty are these two lovers.”

As you probably know, Francis was the son of a wealthy cloth merchant but as a young man, after returning from war, he made a pilgrimage to Rome. There his heart was moved by the sight of the beggars. He exchanged clothes with one of their number and, discovering for himself the reality of poverty, he resolved to commit his life to prayer and to serve all who were poor. Like the man in the Gospel, his ears were opened and he rejoiced to proclaim what the Lord had said to him. Francis was known as “Il Poverello”, the poor man. He embraced poverty in imitation of Christ and by his way of life increased love and faith, healing the gap between rich and poor. It is by imitating Christ that we too can bridge whatever divides us from each other.

In your charity, pray for the sick and the lonely—visit them if you can. Please remember to pray for all who have wandered from the Faith and all who have died, especially Marie Adler, Susanne Haskoor, Romolas Locollo, Herminia Santos, Apolonia Viri. Also, pray for the souls of all the faithful departed of our Parish Family.

May God always be pleased with us!

Monsignor Michael

OUR SCRIPTURE LESSONS REMIND US:

- ...that discrimination between rich and poor people has been practised from time immemorial; but the love of Jesus is not bound by human restrictions: it is for everyone;
- ...that Jesus miraculously cures the man who is deaf and speaks with difficulty; the man receives the ability to hear and speak of what he has heard and understood and so give glory to God;
- ...and that Francis of Assisi so imitated Christ, especially in poverty, that he was able to heal divisions.

May God always be pleased with us. Amen!

TWENTY-THIRD SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME - SEPTEMBER 6, 2015

Dear Friends of St. Ann School,

Music is a voice for soul. Music, like art, allows us to praise God and present ourselves to the world in unique ways. It is with this in mind that I share with you some of the exciting musical features of our school.

Every student has music with our awesome parish organist Carolyn Cuperwicz. The program covers singing, musical instruments, theory, and music history. Children also work with Mrs. Cuperwicz in the children's choir and the bell choir. The proof of the excellence of her instruction are enjoyed by the parish at Sunday liturgies and for special occasions. Further, students perform at various events such as Barnes and Nobles Day and our Christmas Concert. These have been known to even include a dance or two.

The music program introduces students to the recorder. Our young musicians learn to read music and to play together – a feat that is not easy to accomplish as anyone whose ever tried to play in a band knows.

We recognize the impact of music not only on the spirits of the children, but also on their ability to see, hear, recognize, and manipulate patterns which is the heart of understanding and applying math.

Students in grades four and above are eligible to take a musical instrument through the Musical Adventures company sponsored by the Mallinson Family, parishioners of St. Ann Parish. This entitles students to play in one of two school bands. No doubt you have enjoyed their spirited selections during the SSgt John Basilone Parade. Be it drum, trombone or clarinet, the band plays on. Students have traveled with the band in competitions in places like Florida and Washington, D.C.

Music is part of the legacy of Archbishop Thomas Walsh who in 1910 insisted that each Filippini Sister learn music and make it part of the curriculum of their schools. Whether you attended St. Ann School 50, 25, or 10 years ago, you will have enjoyed the music that fills the classrooms and hallways of school to this day.

God bless you for your continued support.

Sr. Mary Klersey, MPF
Principal
